This year sees the 52nd annual South Stoke and Midford Produce Show. This early-autumn highlight, where villagers and their families can get together, has taken place each year since it was founded in the 1970s by Joan Carey-Jones. There is plenty to enjoy about this traditional show, whether you choose to compete or just come along to enjoy viewing the many exhibits. If you haven't been before this is a prime opportunity for you to take part - there are 61 different ways to show off your skills.

There are classes for flowers, fruit, vegetables, cookery, photography and handicrafts with special classes just for those aged twelve and under. There are sixteen cups to be won, including the Silver Jubilee Cup for the family with the highest points, so there is something for everyone to share and enjoy!

As ever the photography competition has themes, which are the same for both the adult and children's categories. They are as follows:

- Portrait
- Landscape
- Nature

This is the third year of the Creative Writing category for adults. We are all looking forward to seeing plenty of your ideas! Now with more writing classes and a new trophy for Creative Writing.

There is a class for everyone! Adults may enter classes 1 to 49. As so many of the adult winners have kindly donated their prize money to the village hall in previous years, we no longer offer cash prizes for adults. Instead the focus is on the glory of winning and the hope of going home with a silver cup!

Entries cost £1 each per class, and all proceeds will go to South Stoke Village Hall.

The Junior section is for children aged 12 or under, classes 50 to 61. Entries in any of these classes is 50p, so why not just have a go? The prizes for children are £1.00 for first place and 50p for second place, which can be collected at the show.

To exhibit at the show, please fill out the included entry form for each individual entrant and return, with the appropriate entry fee enclosed, to The Packhorse, where there will be a post-box, no later than 9pm on Thursday 3rd September.

As last year, the village hall will be open on Friday evening between 5pm and 7pm to stage your exhibits, as well the usual morning of the show between 9am and 11am. A member of the Produce Show team will be there to assist you at both of these times.

If you would simply like to browse the exhibition and meet your neighbours over tea and cake, the doors will re-open to visitors at 2:30pm (entry £2 for adults, free for children aged 12 and under, refreshments included).

Cups will be presented at 4pm, swiftly followed by an auction of selected exhibits. All are welcome!
